

This disease does not respond to any known antibiotics.

People with pets tend not to suffer from this disease.

This disease tends to affect more young people than old people.

This disease has occurred randomly across the country.

More people suffer from this disease during the summer.

You do not appear to develop immunity to this disease.

More men suffer from this condition than women.